Twining Returns Home Without Any Change of Mind

Says He Feels the Same About Relative Strength of Soviet, US Air Forces As Before Making Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining returned from Russia today saying he feels "about the same" on the relative strength of the Soviet and the U. S. air forces as he did before he left for Moscow.

The Air Force chief of staff declined to discuss details of what he learned in Russia but said the Soviets have a "good air force with good leadership and fine equipment."

Twining said he would first report to the President and defense officials before possibly making a public report on his trip.

Twining told reporters upon his arrival at the airport that although Russian leaders were most hospitable and let him "see a lot of things," he felt the trip "did not come up to the expectations of what he had hoped to see."

Twining said the big Soviet air show on June 24 which he witnessed at the invitation of the Soviet government "accented defensive strength." He recalled that Communist party boss Khrushchev had announced the Soviets planned to demonstrate their "peaceful strength" and that they would deliberately withhold their offensive equipment from public view.

Twining disclaimed any pretense of being an expert on either the Soviet Union or its air force, saying that "There are no experts on Russia, only varying degrees of ignorance."

He described his visits to Russian air bases, military manufacturing plants and other facilities as "a controlled one."

Twining said his "quite free" discussions with top Soviet air leaders and some of their army bosses were "most worthwhile." But on this point, as on other details of his eight days in the Soviet Union, Twining declined to elaborate.

Air Force Secretary Quarles, who greeted his chief of staff, told reporters it had not yet been decided how Twining would tell his story to the public.

Twining declined comment when asked, "does the United States still have air leadership?"

He also declined to say whether his visit had changed his opinion about the relative merits of the American B52 strategic bomber, the Bison.

Twining did say he had seen nothing to alter previous Air Force views about Russia's capability to produce modern heavy jet bombers.

In testimony before congressional committees earlier this year, Twining and other air officers repeatedly expressed the opinion that the Communists have greater numbers of military aircraft and that while the United States leads in quality, the Soviets are rapidly closing that gap.

Ike Will Talk With Twining On Thursday

Chief of Staff Plans News Conference While at Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower will confer here tomorrow with Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chief of staff of the Air Force, on the general's personal observations of Soviet air strength.

Twining spent eight days in Russia at the invitation of the Kremlin. He said in Germany on the way back it was the best opportunity yet to assay Soviet air power. He said the Soviet air force was "doing a very good job" and had fine equipment and a fine organization.

He and other Air Force officers saw an air show at Moscow that permitted a look at a supersonic, delta-winged fighter and other new planes.

James Hagerty announced that Twining will fly in from Washington at 9:30 a. m. EDT tomorrow and drive directly to the Eisenhower farm to report to the commander-in-chief. He will be accompanied by Secretary of Defense Wilson and probably some other Pentagon officials.

Afterward, Twining will come to the temporary White House press room for his first news conference since his journey to Moscow.

It will be solely Twining's news conference, Hagerty said, although Wilson is expected to sit in.

Sherman Adams, the President's top assistant, and Wilton B. Parsons, his deputy, also are expected to see the President with Twining.

For the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, the Fourth of July holiday was a quiet one, enlivened mainly by anticipation of a visit from two of their four grandchildren — David, 8, and Barbara Anne, 7.

They were looking forward to the arrival of the two children around noon. But Hagerty said there still were no fireworks on tap and no special plans for observance of the holiday.

Paris Court Fines Poujade, Six Others For Tax Resistance

PARIS (AP)—Pierre Poujade and six of his political lieutenants were fined 2000,00 francs—$571.52—each today by a Paris court which found them guilty of organizing resistance to the collection of taxes.

Members of tax rebel Poujade's party, the Union for the Defense of Businessmen and Artisans have frequently had brushes with government revenue inspectors who were trying to look over a merchant's books.

Restful Progress

We've come a long way in arranging for a quiet, restful Fourth of July, and the rest of the week will be the better for not having post-explosion jitters.

Mostly cloudy Wednesday night and Thursday, with scattered showers and thunderstorms. Little temperature change. Low Wednesday night mid-60s. High Thursday low 80s. Low Thursday night high 60s.

The temperature Wednesday was 71 at 7 a.m. and 84 at 1 p.m. The low Tuesday night was 68. The rainfall Tuesday morning was .33 inch and Tuesday night .47 inch, bringing the total for the week to 3.23 inches.

OVERBOARD — Robert Field, an FBI agent, suffered knee and face abrasions when the brakes of his car failed in a police parking lot in Kansas City, Mo., and broke through a railing, falling down between a building and retaining wall of the lot (above). Field climbed out a window.

Charge of Second Degree Murder Filed

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—A charge of second degree murder was filed in Juvenile Court yesterday against John Pat Drennon, 13, who has admitted stabbing his foster cousin to death.

The cousin, Carol Drennon, 14, was killed by 30 stab wounds at her home here Friday. The boy told police he had a growing urge to kill someone.

The juvenile officer, David Woodruff, said filing of the charge did not "necessarily mean the case will be ultimately decided in this court."

Will Freeze Some Critical Steel Supplies

Government Intends To Keep Defense Production Unhurt

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The government intends to freeze certain critical steel supplies for a while to keep defense production unhindered as long as possible during the nationwide steel strike, already hurting other segments of the nation's economy.

An order instituting the freeze has been drawn up, and will be issued tomorrow, taking effect Friday. It is expected to remain in force for only a limited period, possibly no longer than two weeks.

The action is designed to channel to defense producers selected steel items now stockpiled in warehouses, assuring continuance of the vital national defense program for the longest possible time.

Meanwhile, Independence Day brought a lull in the wave of layoffs and business cutbacks across the country resulting from the four-day-old strike of 650,000 United Steelworkers members against 90 per cent of the basic steel industry.

Unemployment in allied industries stands at nearly 47,000. The figure is expected to climb sharply by the rest of the week.

Tomorrow federal mediators will confer here separately with both sides in "exploratory" sessions aimed at reviving deadlocked contract negotiations.

Joseph F. Finnegan, head of the Federal Mediation Service, will meet first with David J. McDonald, USW president, and later with representatives of the industry's Big Three — U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic.

Negotiations between these principals collapsed in New York about six hours before the walk-out at midnight Saturday when the union's two-year contract expired.

Railroads and other freight carriers — trucking companies, river barge firms, Great Lakes shippers — have felt the initial punch most.

More than 33,000 railroad employees either have been furloughed or notified of impending layoffs. The trucking industry accounts for about 11,000 of the total idled.

Federal Jury Acquits Promoter On Fraud Counts

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Business promoter Harry Lester was acquitted by a federal court jury last night of all counts of an indictment charging he defrauded 12 persons of $143,989.85.

Still pending against the 42-year-old defendant are federal charges of fraud in Chicago and of failing to file an income tax return in Phoenix, Ariz.

After his disappearance from Buffalo in October 1954, Lester's personal debts were reported during involuntary bankruptcy proceedings at more than 1½ million dollars.

After the verdict, Judge Justin C. Morgan ordered Lester to appear for examination tomorrow at 11 a.m. in U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

Lester was specifically charged in the indictment with using the mails, telephone and telegraph to defraud.

The indictment grew out of his activities in the premium merchandise business. Lester purchased and sold merchandise for distribution under purchase coupon programs set up in chain outlets, particularly grocery chains.

According to testimony during the trial, his affairs became so complex that he was forced to borrow extensively to meet his obligations.

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP)—When the cleaning establishment he runs in front of his home here was burglarized a few weeks back, Milton E. Syler decided to prepare against a recurrence.

He purchased a .38 caliber revolver.

Tuesday night his shop was burglarized again. But only one item was taken—the revolver.

Outlines His Platform—

Herman Talmadge Launches His Campaign for US Senate

ROME, Ga. (AP)—Herman Talmadge launched his campaign for the U. S. Senate today with a blast at the U. S. Supreme Court's desegregation decisions, jibes at this nation's foreign aid program and a promise to fight for a more favorable farm program.

The former governor, seeking to replace retiring Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), outlined his platform in a speech prepared for delivery at a typical Georgia political kickoff gathering—a Fourth of July barbecue.

Considered one of the nation's leading advocates of white supremacy, a mantle he inherited from his father, Gene, he declared of the Supreme Court:

"During the last two decades, that court has chipped steadily away at the reserved rights of the states. It has sought to change the very framework of our government, not by legal amendment but through so-called 'judicial legislation.' It has upset the delicate balance of powers between the three branches (executive, legislative and judicial) and the states."

Talmadge in his prepared text made no direct reference to his only opponent, former Gov. M. E. Thompson, but he urged Georgians to back him with a "mighty tidal wave of ballots" in the Sept. 12 Democratic primary so Washington will know "I represent all of the people of Georgia." The Democratic nomination assures election in Georgia.

Talmadge's platform also included planks favoring: Not less than 90 per cent of parity for basic farm commodities; a strong national defense, with emphasis on air power; formulation of "a realistic foreign policy" and a demand that the government cease "doing for foreign nations what it does not do for people here at home;" a systematic beginning on debt reduction, better budgetary control and an across-the-board cut in federal income taxes; preservation of "hardwon gains" of organized labor and strengthening of social legislation embracing social security, public welfare assistance and veterans' programs.

As one indication of this, Mayor cited a recent report by the President of the Albany (N.Y.) State Teachers College that more than half the applicants for entrance next fall indicated they wish to prepare to teach science or mathematics.

Although predicting higher enrollment in numbers in high school science and mathematics, Mayor said the percentage of students taking these subjects probably would not increase much, in fact might even decline.

Began National Activities With Local Backing in 1950

Miss Hazel Palmer reached the top rung of the ladder in the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs when she was elected president Tuesday at the national biennial convention at Miami Beach, Fla.

Hazel will be the first president to occupy the new headquarters of the National Federation in Washington, D.C.

Hazel served as president of the Sedalia Club for two years, 1937-1939. She went on into the state federation work until she became president of the Missouri Federation and served two years, 1944-46.

In all the offices she filled and as president of both the local club and the state federation she had done such a grand job that Mrs. Frieda Nelson, a charter member of the Sedalia organization, couldn't help feeling that Hazel was certainly national material. She talked to Mrs. Erma Rush who had just completed her year as local president and the two of them visited Hazel in her office. That was in 1950.

Hazel was rather stunned that anybody would even think of such a thing and said she didn't feel she was capable. But Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Rush knew better. She had been outstanding in every office she had held, she was a worker in civic affairs. She had made her place beside the men in her profession of law, she was a brilliant woman — why shouldn't she go on into national affairs? they argued. Finally, a little hesitant, she agreed that if they wanted to put her name up, it would be all right. The state federation quickly endorsed her.

In July, 1950, Hazel was appointed public affairs chairman of the National Federation at the convention in San Francisco, Calif., serving her two-year term. In 1952 she was elected second vice-president at the national biennial in Boston and in 1954 at the biennial in St. Louis was elected first vice-president.

During her years in office in the National Federation Hazel Palmer has traveled over the United States and even to Hawaii, where she did organizational work.

She is certainly Sedalia's good will ambassador because she is proud to tell the name of her home town. It isn't that Hazel hasn't ever been anywhere else. After her graduation from high school here, she lived in Washington, D.C., where she attended and was graduated from the National University Law School. She followed the profession of her father, John W. Palmer, who also was Congressman, serving in the 71st Congress, 1929 and 1930.

She returned to Sedalia and was associated in the law firm with her father, served as assistant prosecuting attorney, is a former president of the Missouri Women's Bar Association and is the only woman member of the Sedalia Bar Association. She has also been admitted to the Bar of the U.S. Supreme Court, and is dean of Omicron Chapter, Kappa Beta Pi, international legal sorority.

Following her father, also, in politics, she served three terms as Collector of Internal Revenue of Pettis County and retired from this elective office to devote herself to private practice and her many national and community interests. She is the only woman who has ever been county chairman of her political organization.

In community activities she has been president of the Community Chest, serves on the Selective Service Board and is a member of the board of the Salvation Army.

Eight Swiss mountaineers, being flown in from Zurich, are due to arrive Thursday to join them.

Headed by Raymond M. Batson of Boulder, Colo., a member of the Rocky Mountain rescue group, the climbers took special equipment into the gorge this morning.

They carried rock drills to bore holes in the soft rock and a type of expansion bolt to be put in the hole and tightened for use in working up the face of the cliff.

The other members of the group are David L. Lewis of Boulder, Charles J. Pavlik and Fred W. Welch, both of Denver.

Meanwhile, Coconino County Atty. Shelby McCauley of Flagstaff issued a statement saying it is his opinion there were no survivors from either plane.

The official notice was handed Capt. Byrd Ryland, head of the air search and rescue service mission working on the crashes. Ryland said the notice officially ended the Air Force participation in the operation.

"We must return to our base as soon as possible because we have another mission," Ryland said.

Besides her activities in the Business and Professional Women's Club, Hazel Palmer has received other national honors. She is a member of the national board of the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, a member of the League of Women Voters, is a member of the Committee of Women in World Affairs, and National Association of Women's Lawyers.

She is listed in "Who's Who Among American Lawyers" and "Who's Who in the Central States'."

Mountaineers Begin Climb To Wreckage

Are Flying Swiss Experts to Arizona To Assist in Task

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP)—Specially equipped mountaineers today started an attempt to scale a precipitous butte toward the main wreckage of a United Airlines DC7, one of the two airliners which fell into Arizona's Grand Canyon, killing 128 persons.

Remains of three of the 56 persons aboard the plane when it smashed into the cliff Saturday, presumably after colliding in flight with a Trans World Airlines Super Constellation, were flown out of the canyon this morning.

Found at the base of the cliff, they were the first bodies recovered from the UAL crash.

M. Sgt. Elliot Holder of Henderson, Tex., said they were the only remains found in a search of a two-mile section along the Colorado River at the base of the cliff.

A lot of wreckage from the plane lies in a crevice about 300 feet above the river, he said. The main body of the wreck is another 700 feet up the face of the cliff, he added.

The experienced climbers were called in after UAL crews reported they were unable to make progress up the sheer wall because of "rotten sandy rock" which crumbles under pressure.

Eight Swiss mountaineers, being flown in from Zurich, are due to arrive Thursday to join them.

Headed by Raymond M. Batson of Boulder, Colo., a member of the Rocky Mountain rescue group, the climbers took special equipment into the gorge this morning.

INSIDE STORIES

Do you have any idea how many new mental cases there are in new born babies. Read the story on Page 10.

For one town, the Fourth of July has a special meaning. The town where the first pretzel was made is celebrating its 200th birthday. Hal Boyle tells about it in his column on Page 12.

Use Third Dimension—

Doctor's New Office Incorporates Latest Examination Equipment, Building Design

The new office of Dr. Floyd Lively at Seventh and Osage is modern throughout its entirety. From the time you gaze upon the red brick finish on the outside until you walk through the building to the laboratory on the inside you have the feeling of being in an ultra-modern world.

The interior is paneled completely with mahogany that reaches from the floor to the ceiling. Some partitions in the structure are of a new product, ribbon glass, which you cannot see through and which cast a rainbow effect when the sun peers through them. All the rooms have a beautiful red vinyl tile floor in them.

A glass acoustic ceiling is suspended from the rafters with not a nail in it. All sound in the new building is deadened with the glass acoustic ceiling, making all conversation private.

Dr. Lively has had all of his equipment transformed into third dimension. A screen is on the north wall of the examination room that makes a third dimension background for all subjects. Projections upon this wall are in color, with slides being one of the methods of Dr. Lively's examinations. There are cartoon subjects for the children, enabling them to enjoy an eye examination all the more. All of his projectors and instruments are in this "3-D" form.

There is a full room for visual training with comfortable chairs and equipment to serve patients. Dr. Lively stated, in an interview, that his frame selection lounge would be the utmost in comfort with a large glass mirror on one wall, easy straight chairs, and a cabinet with frames of all kinds visible to all who enter. Patients may select their glass frames at their own leisure without the hurry that previously has been necessary.

Sliding doors are throughout the building, constructed to save floor space and also to give privacy to patients. There is an adjustment room for the purpose of fitting glasses to patients. This room has a comfortable chair and counter at which the patient may see what his or her glasses are like and what they feel like.

There are two examination rooms enabling Dr. Lively to serve more than one person at a time.

Dr. Lively has a new, much larger laboratory in which he may more completely do his adjustment work. Long, low work benches have been constructed in this room and play an important part in his optical business. A young son of Dr. Lively, Dennis, will assist his father on one of the work benches being of what little assistance he can to "the boss."

A central system heats and air-conditions the office with vents running both over and under the structure. The waiting room is of surf wood and precast stone, with some bleached mahogany about it. Beautiful wrought iron chairs are placed about in it for the comfort and convenience of persons waiting. All new lighting has been installed with fluorescent lights.

Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Stauffacher and family, 820 South Osage, had as their guests several days last week Dr. Stauffacher's uncle and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Stauffacher, of Portuguese East Africa. Dr. Stauffacher was graduated from the University of Illinois and went into missionary work for the Methodist Church. He interned under Dr. Kellogg and went to London where he received his degree in tropical medicine, going into his missionary work in East Africa in 1913. Dr. Stauffacher, who was in missionary work at Cambena, which is about 75 miles from Inhambane, was in charge of three leper colonies and later two colonies each with between 200 and 300 people. He pioneered a type of treatment for leprosy that is still being used and about five years ago was decorated by the King of Portugal for his work among the Portuguese people. His wife, who is a registered nurse, has worked with him in the missionary field.

Now retiring, Dr. and Mrs. Stauffacher will spend a year in America, after which they will go to Sweden to visit her relatives before returning to their home in East Africa. They left Sunday evening for the state of California, with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wilcox, Sioux City, Ia., who were also guests over the weekend in the Stauffacher home here, and will visit with Dr. C. J. Stauffacher's only sister, Mrs. Ben Wolk, there.

House Committee Votes To Cut Foreign Aid Bill Over $1 Billion

WASHINGTON — House Appropriations subcommittee members said today they voted to cut President Eisenhower's request for $4,900,000,000 in foreign aid by well over a billion dollars.

The members of the subcommittee handling the foreign aid budget bill declined to be quoted by name in advance of official announcement of committee action, expected later this week.

But they said their group, headed by Rep. Passman (D-La.), decided to slash 200 million dollars more than the billion-dollar cut in military funds previously voted by the House.

Some comparatively small cuts also were made in the economic aid sections of the bill, the Appropriations subcommittee informants reported.

The congressmen acted in closed session this week. Their decisions are subject to a vote by the full Appropriations Committee, which normally follows subcommittee recommendations, and later by the House and the Senate.

Gunmen Botch Holdup, Then End Own Lives

LAWRENCE, Mass. — Two gunmen botched a holdup attempt in a downtown jewelry store last night and then either committed suicide or killed each other as police closed in.

The men tried to rob Kay's jewelry store but fled in a hail of bullets as the owner's son resisted.

Their bodies were found in the attic of a nearby home where

Maltreatment Of Recruits Brings Term

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. — A 24-year-old Marine drill sergeant convicted of maltreating recruits by kicking and striking them has been sentenced to 12 months at hard labor.

A court-martial yesterday ordered that Sgt. Arthur E. Ashcraft, twice commended for his outstanding work with trainees, be given a bad conduct discharge after he serves his sentence here. Ashcraft also lost his rank along with forfeiture of $75-a-month pay for the next year.

The court heard 17 prosecution witnesses testify. They accused Ashcraft of either kicking or striking them or other members of his platoon.

The sergeant, testifying in his own behalf, denied the charges. He said he had "tapped" several of the trainees in the stomach but never struck any blows. "Everything I did," he testified, "I did for the good of the platoon."

Ashcraft was found guilty of three counts of maltreating recruits, but the court found him innocent on 10 similar counts which were covered under a separate section of the Code of Military Justice.

The case against the Covington, Ky., sergeant now goes to the post commanding general for review, then to the judge advocate general of the Navy. If no error is found, Ashcraft can carry his case to the Military Court of Appeals.

Another drill sergeant, Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon of Worcester, Mass., is awaiting trial on manslaughter and other charges growing out of a forced night march into a tidewater swamp in which six recruits were drowned in April.

they holed up in a police siege.

Asst. Medical Examiner Paul A. Oskar said an examination of the bodies indicated they "either killed themselves or each other." One died of a bullet wound in the top of his head; the other was shot in the temple.

Optimist Club, Wives Install New Officers

The new officers of the Optimist Club and the Opt-Mrs. Club were installed by Dr. H. O. Wilbur, past president of the local club and past lieutenant governor of the tenth district, at the noon meeting Tuesday at Bothwell Hotel. Dr. Donald K. Kirby was installed as president of the Optimist Club and Mrs. Ira DeJarnett as president of the Opt-Mrs. Club. Other officers of the Optimist Club installed were: first vice-president, Dr. Charles J. Blach; second vice-president, Milton Jones; secretary-treasurer, Don Bellmer. Of the Opt-Mrs. Club the new officers installed were: vice-president, Mrs. Harold Barrick; secretary, Mrs. Gerald Cecil; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Mehl.

Directors of the Optimist board installed were Gerald Cecil, Dick Esser, Joe Forsee, Bob Lindstrom, Dr. Chester Kirkpatrick and Charles Hurt.

In installing the officers Dr. Wilbur stated the Sedalia organization was a good sound Optimist Club. It was started in October, 1946, and is on its way up to a bigger and better club. He reviewed the objectives of the club after which he told of the very worthwhile work being done by the Opt-Mrs. Club.

Charles Hurt, retiring president, presided and told of the many activities of the club during the past year.

The invocation was given by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman. Singing was led by Dr. K. L. Holdren with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano. Mrs. J. W. Watts, an Opt-Mrs. gave a piano solo.

Dr. Kirby was presented with his pin as he took office as was Don Bellmer.

In telling of his plans for the future Dr. Kirby asked for the cooperation of the organization that the club might go forward. He appointed the following committees: attendance, Milton Jones, chairman, Dr. K. L. Holdren and Lawrence Ward; finance, Lee Deason, chairman, Larry Wansershi and Dr. J. W. Bryden; program, Dr. C. J. Blach, chairman, Frank Mehl, Dr. Ben Klein and Maurice Hogan; membership, Charles Hanna, chairman, Claude Boul and Charles Hurt; boys work, Fred Arbogast, Dr. Russell Drenon and Dr. Chester Kirkpatrick, co-chairmen; bulletin, J. W. Watts, chairman, Lawrence Ward; new clubs, Harold Barrick; publicity, Jay Lazerby and Joe Forsee.

WARB Man Arrested For Service Station Theft in Knob Noster

Ronald Brown, a Negro stationed at Whiteman Air Force Base, was arrested at the base Tuesday by Sheriff Alex Nichols on a charge of stealing $265 from a Knob Noster Conoco service station cash register Sunday evening.

The WAFB provost marshal's office aided Sheriff Nichols in locating Brown.

Brown was placed in a Johnson County jail after arrest and was arraigned by Magistrate John H. Mittendorf Tuesday afternoon. A bond of $2,500 was placed on Brown and a preliminary hearing set for Tuesday, July 17.

Four Witnesses Give Testimony to Jury On Juvenile Problem

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Four witnesses gave their observations and suggestions yesterday before a circuit court grand jury searching for the cause and possible cure of juvenile hoodlumism.

The jurors heard Mrs. Edward G. Brungard, director of public welfare; J. W. Hord, superintendent of Missouri Hills, the city's training school for boys; Dr. Paul Painter, assistant director of the Washington University Child Guidance Clinic; and Police Sgt. Thomas Ryan.

Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd said the inquiry will continue tomorrow. Among the witnesses then will be John Turner, superintendent of recreation for the city parks.

St. Louis has had an outbreak of teenage offenses in recent weeks.

Officers Wives Have Mother-Daughter Tea

The Officers Wives Club of Whiteman Air Force Base will have a mother-daughter tea next Wednesday in place of its regular monthly meeting. The tea will be at 1:30 p.m. and refreshments will be served. During the afternoon films will be shown. The club will be decorated as a summer garden. Members should call 1342-W before July 9 for reservations. Hostesses are Mrs. C. Neil, Mrs. J. Bryant, Mrs. B. Raskin, Mrs. F. McCormick, Mrs. F. Holiday, Mrs. H. Robb and Mrs. H. Lentz.

Pallbearers will be William Turk, David Pratt, Leo Sullivan, Bud McCowan, John Seifner and Oscar Haase.

Lebanon Gets Report Israel Concentrating Troops in Jerusalem

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanon received a report today that Israel was concentrating troops in the Jerusalem sector and acting Premier Saeb Salam said other Arab states had been notified.

There was no confirmation of the report from Amman, capital of Jordan, or from Israel.

The report caused considerable excitement in Beirut, where Parliament was suspended and officials met at the residence of President Camille Chamoun.

Lebanon radio picked up the report and said:

"It is feared that Israel might make a military action on the frontier of Jordan especially in the district of Jerusalem."

Lebanese officials refused to discuss origin of the report, but it appeared to come from Jordanian sources in Beirut.

Costly Bridge
YORK, Pa. (AP)—The state highways department plans to build a $200,000 bridge to carry the York-Baltimore expressway over a railroad track at nearby Stewartstown.

The cost of the bridge would be more than five times the dollar volume of the Stewartstown Railroad's annual business and nearly three times the par value of its outstanding stock.

The railroad operates one train a day, five days a week over the single track.

Dusty Answer
NEWTON, Iowa (AP)—It's an ill wind—

John Wilson, county conservationist, built a new home in Newton and was facing the problem of getting good topsoil for his yard.

But he solved it quickly. High winds had moved some of Iowa's best topsoil into roadside ditches, and Wilson easily gathered up all he needed for his yard.

LODGE NOTICES

Globetrotting By Ice Show Now Its Theme

"Holiday on Ice" of 1956, which comes to the Missouri State Fair, Aug. 18-26, in Sedalia, has been "Totin' Ice" around the country for ten years. In the 11th addition of the show, which will be featured for five nights, starting Sunday, Aug. 19, "Holiday on Ice" takes this theme and develops it into a full production treatment. In addition to its two American shows, "Holiday" boasts a total of seven units playing countries all over the world including the Near and Far East, South America, Europe and even Africa. So, leading off the newest version of the big revue, the opening number is appropriately titled, "Totin' Ice Around the World."

Complete with a huge globe map and life-size cakes of ice, the entire "Holiday" chorus demonstrates how they do their skating in the fashion which has made "Holiday" internationally known.

As a change of pace, the show presents an ice version of Maurice Ravel's thrilling "Bolero." With two adagio teams, a "live" volcano and a skater painted gold from head to foot, this number is a real eye-opener. Musically, the tempo of the number is carried by the "Holiday" orchestra and vocal ensemble.

For the children, as well as for the adults who appreciate "animal" numbers, "Holiday" again combines ice-story with a definite moral in "Noah's Ark." More than 30 characters are presented in this famous account of the 40 days and nights of rain.

Everyone likes music and "Holiday" has set aside one of its production numbers to salute the composers of this country's most famous melodies. Starring virtually the entire cast, ice-artists perform to tunes of Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, Sigmund Romberg and George Gershwin, to mention a few. Again, expense seems to be secondary to appearance in this lavishly-costumed number.

Precision has long been a "Holiday" strong point and this season gives a talented cast of the Glamour "Iceers" and "Ice Squires" a real chance to shine.

Comedy is a big item in a family revue and newcomers as well as old friends combine talents in the 11th edition of "Holiday on Ice."

Headlining Arnold Shoda, Kay Servatius, Shirley Winter, Rafflor and Maps, Sook and Roman, Jeanne Cheadie and many others, "Holiday on Ice" of 1956 figures to make its biggest splash yet when it arrives in Sedalia at the Missouri State Fair from Sunday, Aug. 19, through Thursday, Aug. 23. Twenty-eight acts make up the 2½ hour show, starting at 7:15 p.m.

Several Awards To MU Alumni Association

Philip McLaughlin, director in this district for the University of Missouri Alumni Association, has received from Bus Entsminger, secretary, Columbia, of that group, a report on several awards and commendations when its office staff attended the national convention of the American Alumni Council which represents 750 educational institutions in America. "The Missouri Alumnus," which is the monthly publication of the Alumni Association, won first, second, and third in special categories, and in addition, was judged to be the best alumni publication in a Midwestern district of seven states. The magazine was also judged as one of the top ten alumni publications in America.

In addition to the honors won by this publication, the University of Missouri Alumni Association also won first place in the national direct mail competition. The American Alumni Council presents an award each year to the Alumni Association which has done the most to further the cause of higher education in America. The University of Missouri was cited for second place as a result of its efforts in helping the State of Missouri with its building bond issue.

The receipt of these many national honors is the result of coordinated efforts on behalf of all of the alumni who are active in the University of Missouri Alumni Association. It is a tribute to them on behalf of the formal organization.

Accidents

A hit-and-run collision, with no injuries, occurred Tuesday about 4:15 p.m. at 1616 West 16th.

Involved was a 1950 Chevrolet, parked at 1616 West 16th and owned by Dennis R. Semkin, and an unknown hit-and-run driver. The Chevrolet was damaged on the right rear portion.

A car-bicycle collision at the intersection of Fifth and Ohio about 3:14 Tuesday afternoon was the cause of injury to one person.

Dennis Dorweiler, 2500 South Ohio, suffered light shock when he was struck by a 1955 Chevrolet driven by Larry Lee Clark, 1632 West Fifth. Dennis was taken to Woodland Hospital for treatment.

Two cars sideswiped last Tuesday night on West Highway 50, but no one was injured and both cars were able to proceed under their own power.

The accident occurred at 11:40 p.m. about a half-mile east of the Pettis-Johnson County line. In collision were a 1946 Dodge coach being driven west by William A. Paxton, 32, Hickman Mills, and a 1953 Buick sedan being driven east by Robert D. Cureton, 36, Jefferson City.

The left side of the Dodge was damaged, as was the left front fender and left front door of the Buick.

State Highway Patrol Trooper Richard Joos investigated the accident, but no arrest was made.

Tuesday about 1:30 p.m. a Corpus Christi, Tex., family was involved in an accident on a road 2½ miles north of Syracuse, escaping serious injury.

Occupants of the automobile were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Burns and three daughters who had been visiting his mother, Mrs. Kate Burns, at Syracuse. They were en route to visit his brother, Ray Burns, and family north of Syracuse when a tractor with a trailer load of wheat, driven by Louis Smith, was proceeding south. High weeds on either side of the roadway obscured the view of a culvert, and when Burns pulled to one side of the road to give Smith ample room to pass, his car reached the culvert and turned over into a ditch about five feet deep. It was considerably damaged on the right side and top.

Bruises and shock constituted minor injuries to the occupants. Burns is an insurance adjuster for an insurance company at Corpus Christi and was driving a company car.

Summer Sun and Surf May Streak and Bleach the Hair

Protect your hair from sun, surf and sand.

The girl with bleached, tinted or dyed hair has an even bigger problem to keep her hair from looking like straw in the summer.

"If your hair is tinted, be sure to wear a bathing cap when you go swimming," advises Miss Vern, a New York hair coloring expert of salt water bleaches and dries the hair and dunks in a chlorinated pool are no help either. Pool water combined with sunshine may drastically bleach or discolor your hair," she says.

Dry wet edges of your hair with a towel after taking off your bathing cap, she advises. Put on a big brimmed hat to reduce red or gold sun bleached hair streaks that might otherwise result from the exposure.

Hair lacquer is no substitute for a scarf if you ride in a convertible car, Miss Vern reminds us. Lacquer, she says, should be used sparingly at all seasons because it fades the hair, causing it to lose lustre. She suggests using a hair setting lotion that unearls the hair and contains a conditioner.

Every woman should have at least one mid-summer reconditioning hair treatment, she says, whether she tints or not. It will help keep the hair lustrous. "Many women think that the oils in pomade help condition hair. Actually, it only dresses the hair. It should be used lightly because it might fade the hair" as well as attract dust to it," says she.

Your hair treatment if done in a salon should take about 40 minutes with a heating cap and special oils that help remove foreign coatings such as soap scum, shampoo residue and pigment from rinses as it lubricates and conditions the hair. These oils usually do not leave a sticky hair film and may be removed with a single soaping.

"A natural blonde or a tinted blonde who goes without a bathing cap may be surprised to find her hair taking on a green cast from chlorinated water," says Miss Vern. "That condition and brittle hair, may be helped by using a hair coloring bath that is warmer than the original shade. After that application removes the greenish discoloration the original color may then be put on."

The brassy hair look, the result of too much sun bleaching, may be helped temporarily with a rinse of hair coloring in live-looking gray. This rinse conditions the hair at the same time so that there is no need for a setting lotion.

Brunette hair is likely to suffer from too much sun also. Ends that become sun-streaked are likely to need reconditioning, says Miss Vern, of the Clairol Institute.

Off the Cuff

DALLAS (AP)—A maid confessed to police that she started a $10,000 fire in a fashionable home to cover the theft of a suit and a $150 pair of cuff links she gave to a boy friend.

The boy friend, who was wearing the trousers of the stolen suit when questioned by police, said he couldn't return the cuff links.

States and in foreign countries. But no matter where she goes she still loves her own home town.

"Of course," she said once in talking to a friend, "I'm not saying I wouldn't ever live any place else, because one never knows what might come up that they would have to, but I'd rather live in Sedalia than any place else."

She remains just as natural and friendly and likeable regardless of the honors and the praise she has received as she was before she started her climb upward.

The 12 Sedalians there in Miami Beach with her, a good many of whom have been with her at other national conventions and have shared the excitement of her election to office, were proud and pleased at the announcement Tuesday night. So were the BPWC members who stayed home and waited for the news, for to have a national president is really something to be proud of, and all Sedalia shares that pride.

Brunette hair is likely to suffer from too much sun also. Ends that become sun-streaked are likely to need reconditioning, says Miss Vern, of the Clairol Institute.

Sheriff, Man Who Beat Him Duel to Death

STILWELL, Okla. (P)—Sheriff Chester Crittenden and the man who apparently beat him for his job in yesterday's primary election shot and killed each other last night in the courthouse jail.

Eleven persons reportedly saw Crittenden and Bob Alberty draw guns and shoot it out.

There was no known motive.

County Atty. Owen Grant said there apparently had been no ill feelings between the two men.

Grant said Alberty had defeated Crittenden in the election.

But the county election board quit counting ballots after two precincts were in. At that time, Alberty was leading almost 2-1, 240 votes to 148.

Stilwell is the county seat of Adair County, a town of some 2,000 in eastern Oklahoma.

A huge crowd gathered outside the courthouse.

Both men ran as candidates on the Democratic ballot. Crittenden had served one term previously.

A .32 automatic was found on Alberty. The sheriff had a .38-caliber special.

Sheriff Raymond Herrin, of neighboring Cherokee County, gave this account of the shooting after talking with jailer Junior Martin:

Both Crittenden and Alberty came into the lobby of the jail with a third man — about 11:45 p.m. Then they left. Alberty and a man identified as J. D. Burnett returned and Alberty went into the darkened kitchen.

Crittenden came in, calling for Alberty. Alberty fired from the dark kitchen and hit Crittenden near the heart. The sheriff fired, and the bullet struck Alberty in the forehead.

Both men were in their 50s.

Red Chief Okays Soviet Campaign Against Stalin

ROME (P)—The most important Western Communist to criticize Moscow's anti-Stalin campaign today gave "approval without reserve" to that campaign.

But Palmiro Togliatti, long-time chief of Italy's big Communist party, in a statement said such approval retracts nothing of what he said in an interview, published June 16, which the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee attacked in a resolution last weekend.

Togliatti in the previous interview said Nikita Khrushchev and other present leaders of the Soviet Union were partly to blame for creating the Stalin myth. He suggested Stalin's dictatorship indicated a "certain degeneration" in Soviet society.

The Italian Red, long a close associate of Stalin, contended it was wrong to place all the blame for Stalin's crimes on "the cult of the individual" and called for "ever increasing autonomy of judgment" — freedom from Moscow control — in international communism.

Today's statement was published in the pro-Communist newspaper Paese Sera and reprinted in the Italian party organ L'Unita.

Togliatti said he had not read the complete text of the resolution published Monday in Moscow but what he knew of it indicated it was valuable in answering questions raised outside Russia.

New York City had 1,62,000 people over 65 years old compared to 176,230 in 1920.

Longest Flood Ends On Columbia River

PORTLAND, Ore. (P)—The longest Columbia River flood of modern times ended yesterday as the river dipped below flood stage of 15 feet at Vancouver, Wash., north of here. The river, which carried off more water this year than any time since the gigantic flood of 1894, had been above flood stage 71 days.

Both Chandler And Monroney Win at Home

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky easily won home state Democratic tests yesterday.

Monroney gained renomination in a primary election while Republican Douglas McKeever won a chance to oppose him in the November voting.

Chandler grabbed hammerlock control of Kentucky's Democratic party organization in a state convention that noisily acclaimed him as Kentucky's hope for the Democratic presidential nomination.

None of the victories was unexpected, except perhaps the complete shutout in Kentucky of a Democratic faction led by Sen. Earle Clements and former Gov. Lawrence Wetherby.

Chandler capped his triumphs—being chosen national committeeman, chairman of the state's delegation to the national convention, permanent chairman of the state convention ad presidential "favorite son"—with an appeal for unity.

He urged re-election of Clements and election of Wetherby to the Senate seat of the late Alben W. Barkley. Both Clements and Wetherby have fought the Chandler wing of the party in the past.

As favorite son, Chandler will go to the national convention in August with Kentucky's 30 delegates votes pledged to him "so long as his name remains before the convention."

Chandler told the group he would "use all of our means" to get the nomination if there is a deadlock between current leading candidates.

Girl Pinned In Wreck 9 Days Is Found Alive

SALT LAKE CITY (P)—A missing California teen-ager was found alive last night after being pinned beneath the wreckage of a car for nine days near the body of her fiancé.

Jean Margetts, 18, Sunnyvale, Calif., was rushed to Salt Lake County Hospital in critical condition. Attendants there said she was suffering from exposure and undetermined injuries.

Highway patrolmen, acting on a tip from a plane-borne spotter, found the wreckage in Parley's Canyon, a few miles east of Salt Lake City.

The wrecked car had belonged to her betrothed, 22-year-old James B. Hixon Jr. of Salt Lake City. Hixon's body was found about 20 feet from the wreckage.

The two had been listed missing when they failed to return from a June 24 fishing outing.

Lyle Hyatt, Utah Patrol superintendent, said he thought the girl was dead. But as he lifted the car trunk, Miss Margetts cried out.

"My leg hurts I'm cold."

Officers said the car had plunged over a cliff and struck a shelf 50 feet below, then bounced another 250 feet to the bottom of the canyon.

Swims to His Freedom

BERLIN (P)—A 20-year-old man fled from Communist East Germany today in nothing but a pair of swimming trunks. But he did not leave his clothes on a hickory limb.

Willi Hawner emerged from the Havel River and told authorities he wanted political asylum.

Hawner towed his clothes across the river in a suitcase perched on a tiny raft. The river forms part of the border.

PRIMER FOR AMERICANS

You live in the United States of America. You are an American.

Real Americans like their country. They are proud of it. They think it is a good place to live. And they want to keep it good—to keep it getting better all the time.

Why is America the way it is? What makes it a good place to live? The answer is simply this:

Throughout our history most Americans have believed that every person has certain rights and duties and responsibilities.

Americans have believed that there are certain things people should do, and things they should not do.

They have also believed in certain things that people are, and are not.

These things that people believe are called principles. This book is an attempt to state the Principles of America in simple, primer fashion so that you can understand them, learn them, and remember them.

This is important. It was because earlier Americans believed in these principles and guided their lives by them, that America has grown to be the good place it is.

If all of us learn and remember these principles—if we also guide our lives by them—then we can help to keep America growing better, and better, and better.

And if we follow these Principles of America, we can help make the world a better place to live in, too.

The Principles of America are these . . .

1. Each Person is of Importance and Value as an Individual.

This is the cornerstone . . . the foundation of all our other beliefs in a person's right to live his own life, to speak for himself, to choose and change his leaders.

From it comes our hatred of those "isms" under which the individual has no value or importance as a person, but is only one of many unimportant people who have to live the way their leaders tell them to.

Coming directly from that first principle are two others that are also part of the foundation of Americanism.

2. We Believe that All Men should Enjoy Personal Freedom.

3. We Believe that All Men are Created Equal.

It is worth noting that the Declaration of Independence expressed the belief that "all men are created equal." It did not state or imply a belief that men develop equally or have equal ability, or that they should ever be forced to an exact equality of thought, speech or material possessions.

That would be equality without freedom. Americans have always believed the two should go together.

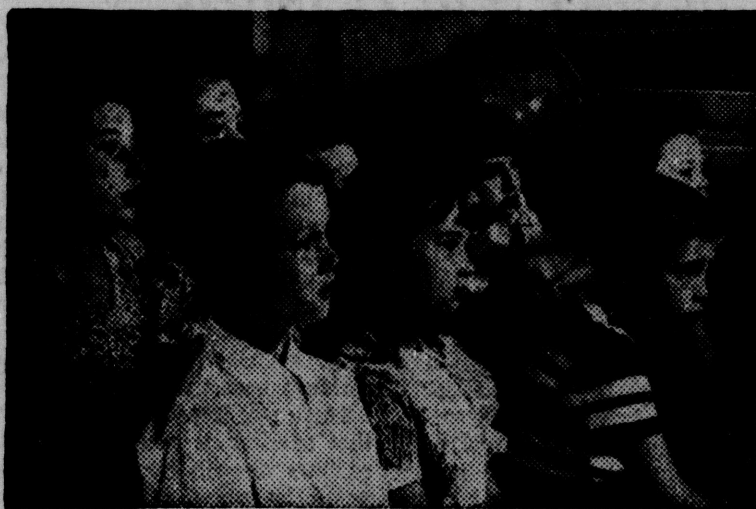

In our Constitution, and in other laws of our land, there are set down principles to protect the rights and freedoms and equality of individuals.

4. The Right to Freedom of Speech.

This includes freedom of the press, of radio, of motion pictures, of every means by which man may express his thoughts.

5. The Right to Freedom of Assembly.

As we believe in the right of individual action, so we believe that individuals should be free to act together.

6. The Right to Freedom of Worship.

Not only is the individual free to worship as he will, but religions themselves are free and equal.

7. The Right to Security of Person and Property.

Not just one, but three Amendments to the Constitution (4th, 5th and 14th) protect against illegal search and seizure, or loss of life, liberty, or property, without "due process of law."

8. The Right to Equal Protection before the Law.

As individuals are equally important, so laws must apply equally to all, without special privileges for any group.

9. The Right to Freedom from Slavery.

This includes "the right to quit," for no individual may be forced to work for another.

10. The Right to Petition the Government.

The right of the individual to "petition the government for redress of grievances" is evidence of the American belief that government is the servant, not the master, of the people.

11. The Right to Vote for people of your choice.

This is the individual's most potent weapon in the protection of his rights and freedoms . . . a weapon that to be effective must be constantly and wisely used.

Other Principles hold that every man has . . .

12. The Right to a Good Education.

13. The Right to Live where he pleases.

14. The Right to Work where he wants to.

15. The Right to Belong to an Organization.

16. The Right to Own Property.

17. The Right to Start his Own Business.

18. The Right to Manage his Own Affairs.

19. The Right to Make a Profit or to Fail, depending on his Own Ability.

There are other, similar rights of individual action which are Principles of America, but all of these individual rights may be combined in these two broad principles . . .

20. Every Man is entitled to Freedom and Equality of Opportunity.

21. Every Man may Earn his Living When, Where, and How he wants to.

There are also Limiting Principles . . .

Principles of individual freedom sometimes clash with those of individual equality. Therefore our rights as individuals must be limited, and those limitations are themselves principles.

22. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with those of Other Individuals.

Your right to swing your arms stops where the other fellow's nose starts.

23. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with the Welfare of the People.

Freedom of speech does not give the individual the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theatre.

24. Every Individual owes Obedience to the Laws under which he Lives.

The individual has the right to talk against a law, to work and vote to change that law, but NOT to disobey that law.

Principles that are Patterns of Behavior . . .

Many of our principles of individual freedom and equality are guaranteed to us by law. But we have other beliefs, other general rules of action and conduct that have grown to the status of principles. And these too, are foundations of Americanism.

25. A Man shall be Judged by his Own Record.

A man's family background, his race or his religion, is not as important as what that man himself can do, for Americans believe a man must stand on his own feet.

26. A Man is Free to Achieve as much as he can.

We believe that where any boy may become President, where any man may achieve greatness, there is the greatest incentive for every man to do his best.

27. To Achieve anything, a Man should be Willing to Work.

Americans have always known that "you don't get something for nothing," that to get anything takes a willingness to work.

28. Achievement also Depends upon the Ability to do a Good Job.

Add to "willingness to work" the ability to produce results and the combination is the basis for most individual achievement in our country.

29. Every Man has the Right to a Fair Share of the Results of his Work and his Ability.

Because of this belief, America has not only produced more goods, but they have been more fairly and more widely shared by more people than in any other country.

30. Security is the Ability of a Man to Provide for himself.

The only true security for any individual is the opportunity, the ability, and the determination to work and plan and save for his own present and future. Self-reliance is vital to individual independence and personal freedom. No man can be "proud and free" who depends on others for his security.

31. When an Individual cannot Provide his own Security, the Responsibility should be Assumed by Others.

We believe that no one should starve, or be without adequate clothing and shelter, so those who have more than their basic needs share the responsibility of providing the essentials of security for those who need help.

32. Each Individual must Deal Fairly with others.

Honesty, fairness, and personal integrity are virtues that help free and independent individuals get along with each other without losing their independence.

33. Fair and Free Competition is a Good Thing.

Americans have always believed that competition among individuals or groups encourages greater effort which in turn brings greater benefits to all.

34. Cooperation among Individuals is Vital.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has said: "The freedom to compete vigorously accompanied by a readiness to cooperate wholeheartedly for the performance of community and national functions, together make our system the most productive on earth."

Principles of Individual Responsibility . . .

Freedom for individuals carries with it an equal responsibility to use that freedom wisely. If we wish to remain free, we must faithfully fulfill this responsibility.

35. The Individual is Responsible for himself and his Family.

He must protect them and provide for their present and future well-being.

36. The Individual has Responsibilities to the Groups of which he is a Part.

He must give of his best to his community, his church, his employer, his union, and to every group in which individuals cooperate for their mutual benefit.

37. The Individual has Responsibilities to his Country.

He must be an active citizen, interesting himself in local, state, and national government, voting wisely, thinking and speaking and acting to preserve and strengthen freedom, equality and opportunity for every individual.

38. The Individual has Responsibilities to the World.

Man's horizons have expanded. What happens in the world affects him, and his actions can affect the world. Today, therefore, each man has a responsibility to act—and to encourage his country to act—so that freedom and cooperation will be encouraged among the people and the nations of the world.

For America's Future

Most of us have faith in our country's ability to move forward, to improve, to grow, to provide more and more individuals with more and more of everything they want and need in life . . .

If we, the people of the United States, want to have more material benefits, we must believe in and follow these two principles:

39. The only way we can Have More is to Produce More; and

40. As we Produce More, we must make it possible for More and More People to Enjoy that which we Produce.

If we, the people of the United States, want to have a better life, spiritually as well as materially . . .

41. We must stand firmly for our Beliefs, our Rights, our Principles.

There are those who would chip away our confidence so that their special brand of tyranny might creep into America. They must not succeed. So, let us ask of every plan, or act, or idea . . .

Is it With or Against the Principles of America?

The Pursuit Of Happiness

The flavor of celebrations of such days as Fourth of July and Labor Day is not as tangy as it used to be when parades, blaring bands, flag-waving, speech-making and community-wide picnics were the order of the holiday.

All is quiet on the home front. The family sleeps late. Only a few flags flying. The business district is in stagnant silence. No need for off-street parking. For those not on some venturesome trip to the lakes or distant places to visit relatives, Sedalia's recreational spots afforded afternoon and evening relaxation.

On the 180th anniversary of our Independence how many persons gave a second thought to those truths so self-evident: "that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. . . ."

Many believe happiness is a guaranteed right to be provided by government rather than a goal set up for attainment only by personal effort and pursuit.

Paraphrasing an article by the Missouri Tuberculosis Association, Americans in vacation mood on holidays and other occasions usually set out in pursuit of happiness but too often attain as their goal sunstroke, drowning, insect bites, car crashes, food poisoning, sharks, polluted water, high prices, forest fires, sprained ankles, over-exertion, summer romances.

Seeking protection against all the perils of nature is next to impossible, but it is well to provide for emergencies by simple and sensible safeguards.

Most families after the holiday battle to have fun and escape broken bones will return to their good old American homes much like the Harry Trumans after a trip abroad; lucky to be alive, all puffed out, but smiling from ear to ear.

We hold this truth to be self-evident that the good old mattress in the average American home is the best haven for relaxation after a perilous trip abroad whether it is to Europe or the Lake of the Ozarks on Fourth of July or any other time.

To rest in peace is another unalienable right of Americans—to rest in peace and yet be alive because the pursuit of happiness was undertaken with common prudence.

Is Vital Move Amid Crisis—

Red Bosses Head Off More Criticism

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Moscow's top Communist bosses apparently are trying to head off any more violent criticism among Red leaders of their failure to overthrow Joseph Stalin or at least curb his excesses.

How well they succeed may well determine the degree of success with which they come through one of the biggest crises which has shaken the Moscow-directed Communist movement during its 40-year history.

Responding to far-reaching criticisms by Western party chiefs of the anti-Stalin campaign which Russian party boss Nikita Khrushchev started last February, the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee sought to gag such attacks in a 6,000-word statement issued Monday.

As read by specialists here, its over-all purpose was to say to the Communist faithful in Russia, in the satellite countries and in non-Communist lands that the time has come to stop anguing and get on with the job of spreading communism.

If such men as Palmiro Togliatti in Italy, Maurice Thorez in France and other non-Russian Communists.

The view here is that if men like Togliatti accept the Kremlin "explanation" and are silenced, they will face difficulties with their followers because the committee statement does not seem to answer adequately the criticisms already raised.

The end result could therefore be that some leaders would lose their official heads. Whether this might mean the end for some of the top bosses in Moscow is problematical.

Moscow had been confronted with two major questions after Khrushchev's February speech in secret to the 20th Party Congress: (1) Had a failure of the Soviet system permitted the growth of Stalin's reign of terror? (2) Why did Khrushchev and Stalin's other lieutenants not halt the Stalin terror?

In essence, the Central Committee said the system had not failed; that Stalin fed upon unusual powers given him at a time when centralized government was needed to protect the Soviet Union; and that the men around him did not act to curb him in part because of his great popularity and in part because they did not fully realize what was going on until after his death in 1953.

Officials here regarded these explanations as phony, and say with badly divided leadership in the world Communist movement.

The Central Committee could not afford to tell the real truth. As Washington authorities understand the situation the truth is simple.

In their view Stalin came to the Soviet system lacks the checks and balances of divided authority which characterize the political structures of Western countries.

Once he had achieved power the system offered no mechanism for ousting him and the men around him—the men who now rule—were afraid to challenge his authority, even assuming that they wished to do so. In fact, there is no objective evidence to indicate that they did not willingly support him during the long years of his rule.

Experts think it probably that many Communist leaders and rank and file members will accept the Central Committee explanation, however, either because they are accustomed to Moscow discipline or because they have no other place to turn.

If men of prominence in the movement, like Togliatti, eventually refuse to accept it, then the Moscow bosses will have to decide what step to take next—whether to try to purge such recalcitrants or to undertake to live with badly divided leadership in the world Communist movement.

Your Child's Health—

Hereditary Factors In Epilepsy Still Debated

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Mrs. B. has sent in a question which raises several important problems. "What do you think," she writes, "about an epileptic girl marrying without telling the boy about her condition? She has the mild form of epilepsy and is taking medicine for it. At times she seems all right and again she does not seem like other people and cannot carry any job through and do it right. I doubt if she could look after a home or children."

First, should a young girl with mild epilepsy (petit-mal) marry without telling her future consort that she has epilepsy?

I feel strongly that she should talk the matter over fully not only with the boy concerned but with her doctor. This is the only way that serious difficulty in the future might be avoided.

Another implied question is the ability of the young lady to do a satisfactory job of running a home. Some who would have difficulty competing in other walks of life can manage the tasks of a home fairly successfully. Nevertheless, this also is important from the standpoint of future happiness and should be thought through carefully.

The question of marriage for someone with epilepsy and the hazards, if any, to children born of such marriage are difficult to discuss entirely accurately. There are differences of opinion as to the part played by heredity in acquiring epilepsy and there is even more uncertainty on how to predict what is likely to happen in an individual case.

There are reasons for believing that epilepsy is essentially a hereditary disease though this is disputed by some. Almost certainly epilepsy does appear with greater frequency in some families than in others. This, however, does not mean that even if both parents have epileptic seizures all or any of their children will develop epilepsy.

What, then, are the chances that a person with epilepsy will have an epileptic child. In one study of nearly 2,000 victims of epilepsy and their families some interesting answers were obtained. The 2,000 patients with epilepsy had over 12,000 parents, brothers, sisters and children. Of the 12,000 only about

Teachers See Home Life As Chief Delinquency Factor

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — If anybody knows the answers on today's juvenile delinquency problem it should be the public school teachers of the country. It is for this reason that the answers to a National Education Association survey, sent into its Washington headquarters by 4,200 teachers from every state in the Union, shed new light on the dark J. D. story.

The survey covers only behavior in school. It's what the youngsters do after school hours, when they are unsupervised, that gets them in most trouble. But classroom behavior gives a good guide to what they do later.

This is the way the teachers ranked the principal causes of school misbehavior: Irresponsible parents, unsatisfactory home conditions, lack of parental supervision due to mother working, lack of training in moral and spiritual values, lack of special classes for those of low intelligence, overcrowded classrooms, the increased availability of automobiles to teenagers.

The teachers gave it as their general opinion that the juvenile problem in their communities was not as bad as portrayed throughout the country by newspapers, radio and TV, movies and the national magazines' crusades.

Only one pupil out of a hundred was rated really bad. But the presence in any class of one or two pupils who need but are not getting psychiatric treatment has a strong effect in pulling down behavior of the whole group.

At the other extreme, children from high-income families are not always best behaved, say the teachers. Best behavior was found in children from families where the standard of living was high but not high enough to employ a full-time maid. It was found that when parents have maids, they tend to be given too much responsibility for raising the kids.

All these somewhat optimistic generalities do not seem to be borne out by the teachers' answers to specific questions on the behavior of their charges.

Over 10 per cent of the teachers said they had been the victims of physical violence from their pupils during their teaching careers,

USDA Group Inspects Oklahoma A&M Site

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—A U.S. Department of Agriculture committee, seeking a site for a $18, 915,000 animal disease laboratory, came here today to inspect an Oklahoma A&M location.

Four possible sites were inspected at Manhattan, Kan., and one at Columbia, Mo., yesterday.

Committee Chairman Don Collins of Kit Carson, Colo., said the group will submit a site recommendation and probably two alternates to Secretary of Agriculture Benson at Kalispel, Mont., Friday.

Collins refused to say whether the committee plans to view any more sites after visiting Stillwater. Previously the committee has visited Ames, Iowa; Madison, Wis., and Lansing, Mich.

one in 40, had a history of more than one epileptic seizure.

The tentative conclusion from this study was that on the average a person with epilepsy could expect that one child out of 40 would also have epilepsy.

Putting the answer in different words, it would seem that each child who is born to an epileptic parent has 39 chances out of 40 of being normal so far as epilepsy is concerned. To be fair about it, however, if there is no history of epilepsy of this sort in the family, there is only about one chance in 200 that any given child would have epileptic tendencies.

though only 1.6 per cent said they had been attacked in the past year. Physical violence was defined as being struck with fists, attacked with a knife, club or gun, or hit by objects thrown to do bodily harm.

Small-town youngsters were reported better behaved than big-town boys and girls. Less than 1 per cent of the teachers reported acts of violence against them in towns of under 5,000. But in cities of a million or more, 28 per cent of the teachers reported they had been attacked.

School crowding was reported to be another factor with a direct relation to pupil behavior. When the class sizes move from 30 to 40, teachers reported their problems doubled.

Teachers with 20 years experience reported stealing, sex offenses, gang fighting and cheating were worse than when they began teaching. Teachers with both 10 and 20 years experience reported impertinence, failure to do assignments, drinking intoxicants and use of profane or obscene language were worse now than when they began teaching.

Only two types of misbehavior were reported on the decrease over the last 10 and 20 years — unorganized fighting and obscene scribbling on lavatory walls.

Only 45 per cent of the teachers said they had authority to whip pupils for misbehavior. But when asked if they should be permitted to administer corporal punishment, 77 per cent of the grade teachers, 62 per cent of the junior high and 37 per cent of the senior high teachers said, "Yes."

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.

The Fourth of July is a birthday. It is the anniversary of the natal day of an independent nation. Many nations have gained their independence from the domination of political power of other nations. Few, however, have established the freedom of man as well as the freedom from external rule.

Our American independence is based on a spiritual concept of God-given freedom for each and every individual who exists. God does not deal with groups, nor with nations as such, nor with masses of human animals.

He deals with human individuals who differ in many ways. The scriptures say that even the hairs of our heads are numbered. Even one person who becomes lost is valued and is offered a way back to the security of God's love.

God was the inventor of independence and of freedom with its recognition of the sanctity of the individual. Furthermore, our nation recognizes officially that God stands above the nation in power, in the deserving of loyalty and in the leadership of man. We now pledge allegiance to "one nation under God."

Independence Day should be observed not only as the birthday of the United States of America, but also as the birthday of the national recognition of man's freedom. God grant that we may not sell our souls into the bondage of sin, and our beings into the bondage of political domination. May we also be proud of man's freedom under God.

Next Battle for Liberty May Be Lost

CONCORD, Mass. — Ducks waddle lazily on the bank of the Concord River. They are in the shadow of the bridge "where once embattled farmers stood and fired the shot heard round the world," but they don't seem concerned about it. . . . Tourists, more concerned, snap pictures. They point cameras up the rolling hill from which 500 farmers armed with pitchforks and squirrel rifles came down to the bridge to turn back British red coats. . . . A lady from Iowa tells her 7-year old that it was here that the independence movement began in April, 1776, how it swept down to Philadelphia, how Thomas Jefferson drafted the Declaration of Independence in July, how a little group of patriots signed it on July 4, how, understandably, they didn't have the courage to proclaim it or ring the Liberty Bell until four days later. . . . Across the field from the bridge a guide takes a group through the Old Manse, home of Nathaniel Hawthorne and the family of Ralph Waldo Emerson. Around it once revolved a cult of strong thinkers, individualistic thinkers — Henry D. Thoreau, Amos Bronson Alcott, the "Concord Summer School of Philosophy and Literature." . . . Joe McCarthy would have called it a Communist cell, and the minute women of Texas and California today would have been shocked at the revolutionary ideas of the minute men who defended the bridge at Concord. . . . Even Thomas Jefferson, who (after the Revolution) wrote "The Tree of Liberty must be watered by a little blood" might have been jailed today for proposing overthrow of government by force.

Guest Editorial—

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL: An Assembly of Old Men. In the first American Congress, no senator was over 65. In the present 84th Congress 13 per cent of all members of the upper house have passed 70.

Senator Theodore F. Green, Democrat of Rhode Island, became the oldest senator in history when he was 88 years, 8 months and 15 days old. That makes him a day older than was Justin S. Morgan, Republican of Vermont, when he died in office in 1898.

The trend in recent years has been toward choice of older men for senators. Present Democratic oldsters, in addition to Green, are Matthew M. Neely, West Virginia, 82; James E. Murray, Montana, 80; Carl Hayden, Arizona, 79; Walter George, Georgia, 78; Herbert H. Lehman, New York, 78; Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Wyoming, 72 in October. Virginia's two Democratic senators will be 70 next year, A. Willis Robertson in May, and Harry F. Byrd in June.

Senior GOP senators are Edward Martin, Philadelphia, 77; H. Alexander Smith, New Jersey, 76; Ralph E. Flanders, Vermont, 76 in September; James H. Duff, Philadelphia, 73; Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin, 72. Senator William Langer, North Dakota, will be 70 in September; Senator Arthur V. Watkins, Utah, in December.

Appropriately enough, the meaning of the word "senate" in its original Latin is "an assembly of old men or elders."

OMAHA WORLD HERALD: Naming Juvenile Offenders. The Gallipolis, O., Tribune published the names of five juveniles sent to a boys' reform school. The juvenile judge in the case held the managing editor in contempt, saying that the court had ordered the names withheld. The editor was fined two hundred dollars.

Now an appellate court has reversed the juvenile judge, ruling that "no one ought to be found guilty upon a doubtful charge of indirect contempt, especially in a case involving freedom of the press."

The Gallipolis case points up the responsibilities of the press in a time of rising juvenile crime and has caused repercussions elsewhere. The Atlanta Constitution, in commenting on it, strikes at the Georgia law which forbids the publication of the names of minor offenders, particularly because it protects repeat offenders. Among newspapers there is substantial agreement that suppression of names in juvenile cases by law or by judicial order is not in the public interest.

No newspaper likes to print the names of young people in trouble. Such items don't "sell newspapers" or benefit the paper in any way. But more and more newspapers seem to believe their duty in juvenile crime lies on the side of disclosure.

Parker ordered his Minute Men: "Stand your ground, don't fire unless fired upon, but if they mean to have war let it begin here." . . . Around that green, the suburbs of Boston, reaching out for more elbow-room, more air, more freedom from gasoline fumes, has taken over. . . . Paul Revere, if he made the brief ride from Boston today, would have got tied up in traffic jams. His horse's hooves might not have survived the punishment of concrete pavements. . . . Actually Revere never did get to Concord. He stopped first at Lexington where he had the Dickens of a time waking up Samuel Adams and John Hancock, famous later as the first man to sign the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia. They wanted to sleep. . . . And when Revere headed for Concord, the British caught him. They also caught Rufus Dawes, ancestor of Coolidge's vice president, Charley Dawes. The only man who sneaked through was Sam Prescott, who had a late date with a girl in Lexington and managed to ride the back roads seven miles to Concord to warn that the British were coming.

Riding over the smooth, crowded highways outside Boston today you can't help comparing the type of war fought then and war fought today. Captain Parker lost eleven men at Lexington. It was a great historical battle, the beginning of a war. But only eleven men were killed. . . . Today if war came to the suburbs of Boston, one hydrogen bomb would wipe out, main or contaminate 1,500,000. For days afterward no one could live in the vicinity. . . . Not eleven men, but 1,500,000. . . . That's what war means today. "Several hundred million people," including many American allies in Europe would be killed, testified Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, if hydrogen war broke out between the United States and Russia. . . . "This is a dangerous understatement," countered Lauriston Taylor and Roger Lapp, two of our foremost atomic physicists. Such an attack would affect not merely several hundred million, it would be catastrophic to the entire northern hemisphere, they said. . . . "Such widespread contamination with its effect on human genetics would be so great," said Dr. Taylor, "that I don't believe the human race could survive." . . . "The whole world would suffer unto death," said Dr. Lapp. . . . That's how far he have come in the 178 years since the battles of Concord and Lexington.

That also may be why the world may be reaching a military stalemate in which even the rulers of the Kremlin pause in the face of the fearful awesomeness of atomic war.

Don't Rave Over 'Ave'

The annual governors' conference, which met this year at Atlantic City, always accomplishes a good deal of useful but unspectacular work in the field of interstate relations, highways, schools, and the like. But in presidential years it is inevitably a political forum as well.

This time interest focussed naturally on the Democratic presidential race, since President Eisenhower is a foregone conclusion for the GOP nomination unless he surprises by announcing he will not run again.

There were 25 of the 27 Democratic governors at Atlantic City. The big question was whether one of them — Gov. Averell Harriman of New York — would fire the imagination of the others and begin to develop as a real rival to front-running Adlai Stevenson.

He tried hard. He held more press conferences than anybody. He invited all Democrats to a social affair in his hotel suite. A few of his key supporters sought to drum up delegate interest in him.

But when it was all over the consensus among independent observers was that he did not catch fire. With the convention only a month and a half away, he still has not shown the makings of a successful bidder.

To you, the Kingdom!"—Matthew Arnold.

Puts Emphasis On Proper Trade Balance

Foreign trade is a two-way street and we must consider exports at the same time we consider imports of products. That was one of the main ideas brought out by Clarence Klingner, extension economist, at the Missouri Livestock Association meeting held Saturday at the University of Missouri.

Klingner discussed recent trends in U. S. foreign trade of livestock and meat products. There has been considerable concern about meat being imported while livestock prices in the U. S. have been relatively low.

According to the economist, our 1955 livestock and meat exports exceeded imports by $76 million. Our exports were primarily tallow, greases, lard and hides. On the other hand, our imports were primarily specialty-type meats such as canned hams and shoulders and canned beef. These products appeal primarily to persons of foreign heritage or those willing to pay higher prices. Current prices of imported hams are 51 cents per pound as compared to 46 cents for domestic hams.

Total imports of livestock and meat products equal about 1 1/2 percent of U.S. production. These imports have been decreasing. Mexico has been an important exporter of cattle to this country. She shipped us about 25,000 cattle and calves in 1955. Although that was more than in 1954, it was substantially below the number shipped to the U. S. in 1946. The cattle imports from Mexico in 1956 are expected to be down from last year. Canada has also been shipping us less cattle than in the late 1940's.

In conclusion, the economist said livestock producers face several important questions on this import and export problem: Will we lose our foreign market for lard, tallow and hides if we reduce our purchases of foreign meat products? And what can livestock producers do to increase our exports of products least in demand in our own country?

Says Participation In Soil Bank Will Not Hurt Future Allotment

Participation in the acreage reserve program under the soil bank will not affect the corn farmer's future acreage allotments, County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee Chairman C. A. Staples said.

Even though the farmer reduces his corn crop to earn Soil Bank payments and help with surplus adjustment, he will receive credit for having planted the full amount of his corn acreage allotment. In that way, his corn history will be protected for allotment purposes.

C. A. Staples pointed out that farmers have only until July 20 to sign agreements for participation in the corn acreage reserve program. Farmers who have not yet called at the county office to discuss this program and sign agreements should do so as soon as possible.

Ex-Cage Star Helps Pirates Take Phillies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Three and a third innings of hitless relief pitching doesn't make a major league hurler, but Manager Bobby Bragan of the Pittsburgh Pirates today ordered a pitcher's toe plate for infielder Johnny O'Brien.

Johnny's superlative relief performance yesterday against the Phillies, whom he held hitless in 2½ innings—helping the Pirates to a 6-5 victory—and an emergency one-inning appearance last week against the Cincinnati Redlegs convinced Bragan he had a new pitcher.

"Yes sir," Bragan said after O'Brien gained his first major league victory. "I'm going to order a toe plate put on Johnny's spikes and use him as a starter in spots."

The 25-year-old former University of Washington basketball star proved his pitching ability—not to mention courage—when he came on to relieve Laurin Pepper in the seventh with the bases loaded, two out and a 2-0 count on Willie Jones. The Pirates were trailing the Phils 5-3.

After serving up another ball to Jones, Johnny threw two strikes past the Phils' third baseman before getting him to fly out.

Asked why he used Johnny, normally a second baseman, in such a dangerous situation, Bragan replied:

"I needed a strike thrower. Johnny is the best batting practice pitcher I have and after the good work he did against Cincinnati last week I didn't worry about using the little fellow."

Bragan, in what appeared to be a desperation move, ordered Johnny to pitch the ninth inning last week against Cincinnati after the Redlegs scored nine runs in the eighth to ew the game up. hit one and got another to ground into a force-out.

The blow that gave Johnny the victory yesterday was delivered by pinch hitter Bob Skinner, who knocked out a home run with a man on base in the ninth inning.

"There's nothing fancy about my pitching," O'Brien said. "Today I just mixed fast balls and a dinky curve to get them out."

Johnny might have added that he got the first five Phils he faced to hit soft fly balls or pop-ups. His only weak moment was a walk he yielded to Marv Blaylock in the ninth. He had one strikeout.

Mickey Mantle May Be Top Switch-Hitter of All Times

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle's tremendous switch-hitting exploits, batting from both righthanded and lefthanded positions, have resulted in the inevitable question.

Who was the greatest switch hitter of all time?

Unquestionably Mantle ranks No. 1 when it comes to sheer power. No switch hitter ever came close to matching Mantle's tape measure jobs.

Jim (Rip) Collins, former first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs, now in an executive capacity with a sporting goods company, probably was the top slugger of all the switch hitters before Mantle. Collins tied Mel Ott for the National League home run championship, hitting 35 in 1934 when he bated .333.

The greatest of all switch hitters, taking in batting average, ability to get on base, extras base power, plus length of service, was Frankie Frisch, the old Fordham flash, who played second, third for the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals.

A Hall of Famer, Frisch played top big league ball for 19 years. In 13 of those, including 11 years in succession, Frisch batted .300 or better. He ranks among baseball's top dozen lifetime hitters with 2,890 safeties in 9,112 times at bat for a career average of .316.

Let some might think that Frankie was a leg hitter, take a look at his extra base totals which included 466 doubles, 138 triples and 105 home runs.

Another fine switch hitter was Max Carey, the old speed merchant and brilliant defensive outfielder of Pittsburgh and Brooklyn. Carey, who managed the Dodgers briefly, spent 20 years in the National League. During that time he pounded out 2,469 base hits, batting from either position. He topped the .300 mark seven times and reached his peak in 1925 with a batting average of .343. His lifetime mark was .285.

There have been perhaps 100 switch hitters in the big leagues since 1900. A majority of those have been pitchers who probably switched from one side to the other through sheer necessity.

An all-star team of switch hitters would look something like this (with the runner-up in parentheses):

First base — Jim (Rip) Collins (Walter Holke).

Second base — Frankie Frisch (Red Schoendienst).

Third base — Jimmy Austin (Sammy Strang).

Shortstop — Dave Bancroft (Donie Bush).

Right field — Ross Youngs (Roy Cullenbine).

Center field — Mickey Mantle (Jigger Statz).

Catcher — Wally Schang (Johnny Gooch).

Pitchers — (as a hitter) — Ted Lyons, Jim Bagby Sr., Larry French and Garland Buckeye.

Other switch hitters of note include Johnny Neun, former Detroit first baseman and the last player to make an unassisted triple play; second basemen Miller Huggins, Jimmy Brown, Lee Magee, Pop Young, Johnny Lucadello and Junior Gilliam; shortstops Mark Koenig, Billy Rogell and Willie Miranda; outfielders Jim Russell, Sam Jethroe, Bernie Neis, Jimmy Riddle, and Dave Philley; and catchers Ken Silvestri, Tom and George Dickey.

Among the all-star team the least known probably are Austin and Schang. Austin played 14 years in the American League with New York and St. Louis, batting .247. Schang put in 19 years, catching for six American League clubs from 1913 through 1931. He was one of the original "iron men," catching 100 or more games each season. Five times he topped the .300 mark, reaching a personal high of .330 in 1926 with the Browns. He caught in 1840 games and had a career batting average of .285.

He pitched only part of the 1947 season because of another line drive that broke his left leg. He got another shot at the majors after posting a 24-11 record with Seattle in 1950, and has been "up" ever since.

With seven wins and two losses — and a fine earned run average — since joining the second-place Sox, Wilson could wind up a 20-game winner. He already has been named to the All-Star pitching staff.

"It's a world of difference having a good club behind you," said Wilson after limiting the Tigers to six hits. "I'm not doing anything different, that's for sure. I'm just throwing that same old stuff."

Last season with Baltimore Wilson had a 12-18 record with an earned run average of 3.45.

All-American Girls To Play Sedalia A's Team Here Friday Nite

The All-American Girls' baseball team will play the Sedalia Athletics' men's team on Friday, July 6, in a night game here at Liberty Park.

The girls have made a fine reputation playing men's teams in regulation baseball. They play regular rules. The only exception is that they exchange batteries with their opponents.

They hit, run, throw and field just like the male players. They hit home runs and three baggers just like the men. Jean Geissinger, Jo Weaver, Katie Horstman, Dotie Schroeder, Jean Berger all are dangerous with the stick. Jo Weaver is considered one of the best girls that ever played regular baseball.

Any girls wanting to try out for the club can do so by reporting to the All-American girls' bench at the game. If they make good, they will be signed on the spot. A feature added to the game is a $25 gift to any girl who can beat Jo Weaver in a 50 or 60-yard dash.

The Sedalia Ban Johnson team will play the Boonville Bearcats Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in their first game of the second half. All players are requested to be at the park by 6 p.m.

Pittsburgh manager Bobby Bragan and two of his coaches, Clyde Sukeforth and Sammy Narmon, were catchers.

Horse Show to Include Bigger Shetland Pony Program at Fair Here

Shetland ponies will have a bigger place in the Horse Show of the 1956 Missouri State Fair, Aug. 18-26 in Sedalia. This year for the first time a Shetland Pony Halter Division has been added as part of the Horse Show which is so traditional at the Missouri State Fair.

Supt. Fred P. Schell, Jr., Liberty, said today that the total premium offered in the Horse Show is $20,920.00.

The horse show will run six days, starting Sunday, Aug. 19. Classes include roadsters, fine harness horses, walking horses, harness ponies, hackney ponies, Shetland ponies, Shetland pony halter division, special for children (with children showing), three-gaited saddle horses, five-gaited saddle horses, youth parade, pleasure class division, and open rein class.

The entertainment program for the 1956 Missouri State Fair also includes four days of harness and running horse races, two automobile thrill shows, four days and one night of auto races, a huge carnival and many other features.

NEW RECREATION BUILDING—The Missouri State Park Board at a statutory meeting in Jefferson City on Monday awarded the construction bid for a new recreational building at Camp Bob White in Knob Noster State Park to Herbert Daugherty of Joplin who was low bidder with a bid of $24,296. Ralph L. Morgan, chairman of the board, said, "This new building addition to the organized group camp facilities of Camp Bob White will make this camp more enjoyable and serviceable to the numerous group campers from west central Missouri, who make the most of this camp." Dave Clark, Columbia, was the architect of this building which is modern in design. Construction is scheduled to start within the next three weeks and the building, which is 72 feet, 8 inches long and 42 feet wide, is expected to be completed within four months.

Mike Souchak, Gene Sarazen Like Fast Round

HOYLAKE, England (AP)—Mike Souchak and Gene Sarazen, American contenders for the British Open golf championship, lie in making up their minds quickly on the course and the British fans love them for it.

Souchak of Berwick, Pa., partnered Britain's Guy Wolstenholme, another fast player, and England's Eddie Whitcomb in the qualifying round yesterday.

The threesome got around the course in 2 hours, 50 minutes. Championship play started today.

That was a speedy round even for a tournament where play thus far has been unusually brisk.

"I like to play fast," Souchak said. "It's much slower back home than over here. Threesomes in our tournaments take about four hours. Everybody takes a lot more time on the greens in the United States. They are a bunch of thinkers over there, and sometimes they think themselves out of a putt."

Sarazen, 54-year-old New Yorker who won the British Open in 1932 has this to say about drawmout matches:

"Spectators get bored when golf matches last four hours or more. No threesome should take more than three hours."

Running Horse Races Returning To Missouri Fair

Running horse races are returning to the 1956 Missouri State Fair after an absence of 17 years.

E. A. Duensing, superintendent of the speed department, and W. H. Ritzenthaler, secretary of the Missouri State Fair, said today that a complete schedule of races has been set up, with 150 entries already listed. A long string of running horses assures top competition for the $18,200 cash premiums.

Of this total cash premium, $17,000 is offered by the Missouri State Fair, and $1,200 as specials. The harness races, which will take $14,000 of the total cash premiums, will be run on a mile track, with four races each day, Aug. 21 through Aug. 24. All are afternoon events.

Runners will race for a purse of $4,200 during the four day meet. There will be two running races each afternoon, Aug. 21 through 24. An eight stall gate will be used.

Medalist Judy Bell Meets Mrs. Munger In 14th Broadmoor

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Medalist Judy Bell of Wichita, Kas., who shot a 1-under par 79, meets Mrs. Jack Munger of Dallas, who qualified with 88, in today's first round of match play in the 14th annual Broadmoor Women's Invitational golf tournament.

Miss Bell was medalist last year too, but lost 1 nine second round. Defending champion Jean Ashley, 17, Chanute, Kas., is matched with France Rich of Dallas, who qualified with 89. The only other former champion, Mrs. Patti Blanton of Enid, Okla., who shot a qualifying 87—the same as Miss Ashley—meets Miss Dale Fleming of Tulsa, who shot a 90.

Michigan State's explosive half-back pair of Clarence Peaks and Walt Kowalczyk averaged nearly six yards per carry during 1955.

NEA Still Hopeful For Passage of Bill To Give School Aid

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—James L. McCaskill, legislative director of the National Education Assn., said today NEA leaders still are hopeful for passage of federal school construction aid in this session of Congress.

He said he had word from Washington that Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) and other supporters of the legislation were working to obtain a reversal of a teller vote by which the House yesterday attached an antisegregation amendment to the bill.

Both Democrats and Republicans have said such a rider would kill the measure.

McCaskill said NEA members were "pouring telegrams to their congressmen" urging them to defeat the rider if it is reconsidered under a roll call vote when the House reconvenes tomorrow.

"I don't know how many telegrams have gone to Washington," he said, "but it's well up in the hundreds."

Mrs. Clifton Frewell Retires Position

Mrs. Clifton Frewell retired as postmaster in Calhoun June 30, a position she has held almost 22 years. She began working in Oct. 1934, and has held the position longer than any other postmaster in Calhoun.

A replacement has not been named at this time. Mrs. Hazel Pollard has been clerk since Mrs. Frewell started her job. Mrs. Howard Thompson is substitute clerk. The rural mail carriers are Ernest Courtney, Leeton, Route 1, and Bill Chick, who has been a temporary carrier since the retirement of M. R. Munday Dec. 31, 1955.

Army Career Man Home on Leave

Capt. and Mrs. Bert Berry, who have been in Frankfurt, Germany for three years, arrived in Knob Noster Friday to spend a 30-day leave with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Berry and in Kansas City with other relatives.

Capt. Berry, who has been in service 15½ years, will be stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind.

Nine Persons Injured

BRUNSWICK, Md. (AP)—Four cars bounced off the tracks and one overturned in a Baltimore and Ohio train derailment yesterday. Nine persons were injured.

The eight others cars on the train took aboard most of the passengers and proceeded to Washington. The train originated in Chicago and its destination was Jersey City.

Michigan State's explosive half-back pair of Clarence Peaks and Walt Kowalczyk averaged nearly six yards per carry during 1955.

Soviet Union Sends Greetings to Ike And American People

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union today sent Fourth of July good wishes to President Eisenhower and the American people.

Moscow radio, quoting an article in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, said the Soviet people "are among the peoples paying homage to the historic significance of the (American) Declaration of Independence."

The Soviet people, Izvestia said, "sincerely wish for normal friendly relations between the U.S.S.R.

FREEZER SPECIALS

Enjoy a new way of life with a convenient money saving RCA Food Freezer.

What To Look For When You Buy A Food Freezer

A food freezer is a relatively new appliance. Since most housewives who go out to buy one have had no previous freezer shopping experience, here are a few tips from home economists at Whirlpool-Seeger Corp., manufacturer of RCA Whirlpool freezers.

1. Size your freezer to your family and your location. A rule of thumb is to allow four cubic feet of freezer space for each family member. If you live in the country and have access to fresh fruits and vegetables, if your fisherman or hunter husband always brings home a good catch, you will want a larger model. It's nice to be able to freeze in-season foods for out-of-season serving.

2. Select a freezer that will fit your home. If you have a utility room, large basement, garage or family room-kitchen you should consider a chest freezer. It's counter-high flat top will do double duty. For example, if you place your freezer in the same room where you do your laundry, the top will serve well as a place for sorting clothes or drying sweaters. Some models may be fitted with a formica top to contribute to exterior function and add a decorator color touch. A vertical freezer is an excellent choice for a home that is short of floor space. Remember, if you plan a basement or garage installation, be sure to select a freezer with a lock built into the handle.

3. Choose a freezer that is convenient to use. Cabinet interiors should be well-lighted and easy to clean. A chest unit with lift-out baskets permits easy accessibility to most-used items.

Los Angeles Booms Again As Show Town

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Who says Los Angeles is a bum show town? After a winter that saw most of the local legit theaters dark, live shows are popping all over town. What's more, audiences are just as lively. They're out to prove that Angelinos will support a live theater.

Backbone of the spring and summer season is the Civic Light Opera at the Philharmonic Auditorium. Business is booming. A first-class revival of "Rosalinda" and a so-so Broadway hit, "Silk Stockings," have drawn over $60,000 weekly. That's more money than musicals earn in New York. Monday night saw the opening of another smash, "Damn Yankees," with Bobby Clark as an added asset. "The Girl Friend" comes in next.

Victor Borge did sell-out business at the outdoor Greek Theater.

Otterville 4-H Club Holds Regular Meeting

The Otterville 4-H Club held a regular meeting and winter roast June 28 at Brownfield Roadside Park with 26 members and five visitors, and six project leaders present.

Mrs. Holman announced that all projects for the fair this year should be finished by July 26. The next meeting will be July 26.

drawing a staggering $85,000 with his one-man show. Now Harry Belafonte is pulling in the crowds, and he'll be followed by the Ballet Russe, "The Red Mill" and "Student Prince."

The new but often vacant Huntington Hartford Theater has finally found a hit with "Anastasia" and will doubtless do well with Melvyn Douglas in "Inherit the Wind." The town's veteran legit house, the Biltmore, lights up again tomorrow night with the Broadway company of "Witness for the Prosecution" for an unusual four and a half week run.

It appears that Los Angeles will support the legit—in the summertime, at least.

"DR. CHRISTIAN" — Actor MacDonald Carey, above, will fill the role of "Young Doctor Christian," left vacant by the death of Jean Hersholt, when the home screen series resumes this fall.

Youth Picks Wrong Time to Celebrate

HUNTINGTON W., Va. (AP)—Bill Farley not only picked the wrong time to celebrate Independence Day—he tossed a firecracker in the wrong place.

The 18-year-old youth pleaded guilty in court to throwing a firecracker at a street intersection. And who should be driving by at the time but State Trooper C. R. Davis, who arrested Farley and confiscated several packages of the noise makers.

Firecrackers are illegal in West Virginia. Farley was fined $10.

Father Pries Girl From Lion's Jaws

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP)—A chained lion grabbed a small girl by the head with its jaws yesterday and held the child in a vice-like grip until her father freed her by forcing the animal's mouth open.

The lion, trained for night club acts, turned on the girl when she ventured within reach in the owner's back yard.

Police said Beatrice Ann apparently slipped through a back gate of a fenced enclosure confining the chained animal, along with a lion cub.

The grown lion seized Beatrice Ann's head in its jaws. Her father Gerald Harris rescued her by rushing to the 270-pound beast and ramming his knee and arm between its jaws.

Beatrice Ann first was taken to Hackley Hospital here. Then she was rushed the 40 miles by car with police escort to Blodgett Memorial Hospital in Grand Rapids.

At the hospital it was said she suffered several depressed skull fractures and a chest wound. Her father was hospitalized for shock.

The Harris family had been visiting friends here.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph Sugarbaker of Muskegon County said the lion's owner George DeNio, a night club man, described the animal as "not mean."

Federal Grand Jury Calls Three Backers Of Stuart Symington

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A federal grand jury investigating congressional campaign expenditures and tactics has called three leading backers of Sen. Symington (D-Mo) in the 1952 campaign to appear next Monday and Tuesday.

Those under subpoena were Sidney Maestre, who was treasurer of the St. Louis Citizens Committee for Symington; Jacob M. Lashly, chairman of the same committee then; and Latney Barnes, Mexico, Mo., who was chairman of the Missouri Citizens for Symington.

The district attorney's office also put under subpoena any records that may deal with the financial aspects of the senator's winning race.

Senate Passes Raise In Federal Debt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed by voice vote and sent to President Eisenhower yesterday a bill to fix at 278 billion dollars the ceiling on the federal debt during the 12 months which started this week.

The permanent ceiling on the national debt is 275 billions. During each of the past two years, Congress has raised it temporarily to 281 billions.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said he would again need an increase to tide him over periods of low revenue during the coming year, but he agreed that three billions over the permanent limit would be enough.

Policeman Makes Bullets At Home, Saves City Money

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Policeman Carl Koontz gets a big bang out of his do-it-yourself hobby. He makes his own bullets.

Koontz, 18-year veteran with the Knoxville police department, estimates he has made 80,000 bullets for the force since he started in 1942. Much of the recent ammunition has been used in the Police

Fire Arms Training School, required for rookies with less than two years' service.

Using old shell cases, slugs he casts himself and the necessary powder and primer, Koontz sells the city 1,000 rounds of .38-special pistol bullets for about $30. Com-mercially, the ammunition would cost about $66.

A total of 32,000 of Koontz's bullets have been fired in the training school with but three misfires.

He explains the three-step operation this way:

First, the slug—that part of the bullet which actually is fired from the gun—is cast from a mixture of tin and lead.

"You put tin with the lead to give the slug hardness," he explains. "If you used pure lead, it wouldn't hold its shape when fired and would have a tendency to stick in the barrel."

This step is performed in the tiny room on the second floor of police headquarters.

The second step is to size the newly cast slug, with a gadget which trims each slug to the exact
.358-1000th of an inch required. It also coats the slug with oil to cut down friction as it travels through the gun barrel.

The last step is a three-part operation. First, the used shell case is sized and the old primer taken out. Next, the case is charged with three grains of pistol powder and new primer inserted. Finally, the slug is locked in place and the shell is ready to be used again.

Koontz, a crack shot and a hunter, also makes rifle shells, including all his own ammunition—both for use on duty and hunting trips.

As a sideline, he makes custom rifle stocks.

'Pretzel Town' Observes Its 200th Birthday on July 4th

By HAL BOYLE

LITITZ, Pa. (AP)—Independence Day holds a special significance for Lititz, known across the nation as "The pretzel town."

The community, deep in the Pennsylvania Dutch country where the first commercial pretzel in America was baked in 1861, is celebrating its 200th birthday.

Lititz, now a thriving agricultural and industrial center of more than 6,000 population, has had an unusual history. In its way it captures the story of America.

It was founded in 1756 as a Moravian community, and for 99 years the church elders largely ruled its business as well as its social and spiritual life.

You couldn't borrow or lend money, board a stranger overnight, or even go into a new trade without permission of the congregation's all-powerful committee on temporal affairs.

Anyone who was caught in such "gross heathenish sins" as excessive drinking, wenching, gluttony, cursing, lying, cheating, stealing or quarreling and fighting was subject to prompt expulsion from the community.

Some of the early town regulations make interesting reading today. For example, this one:

"No dancing matches, taverning (except for the necessary entertainment of strangers and travelers), Beer-tappings, fearings at weddings, christenings or burials, common sports and pastimes, nor the playing of the children in the streets, shall be so much as heard of amongst the inhabitants. They that have inclinations that way bent cannot live at Lititz."

Swimming and skating were also banned, because of possible injury to the immortal souls of the pious. As one member wrote, "what would the dear Saviour think of such actions?"

But human nature was still human nature even in those days, and the diaries of the church committee note many lapses from grace. Here are a few entries:

"Oct. 22, 1779. It was an unbrotherly stroke of business for Heinrich Rauch to charge two poor brethren 18 pounds for their trusses, which he made in half a day."

"Nov. 7, 1788. In our opinion Claus Collin charges too much for the coffins he makes; therefore it will be well to confer with him the matter."

"Nov. 1809. Members...must see to it, as much as possible, that the smoking of cigars by children and youths is stopped, about which parents and masters were recently spoken with."

Modern youngsters, who start "going steady" in their teens, would have found the early regulations unbelievably strict.

There was no such thing as courtship. Single men and women were quartered in separate buildings. Marriage wasn't by choice; it was by lot.

When a man expressed a desire to marry, the elders decided which girls were eligible. The name of each was written on a piece of paper and inserted in a goose quill. The goose quills were placed in half a coconut shell. The bridegroom then reached in and selected a goose quill at random. The girl whose name it contained became his bride.

This custom died out after 1818

LITTLE LIZ

One nice thing about money is that no one objects if its color clashes with the clothes you are wearing.

when John Beck, the village schoolmaster, stoutly insisted on his right to pick his own bride—and did.

Some oldtimers still insist that, by and large, the marriage by lot system didn't work out too badly. "Marriage is a lottery any way you try it," one said, smiling, "and in the old days there weren't many divorces."

There are half a million members of Parent Teacher Societies in Pennsylvania.

Harriman Pleased With Reception On Midwest Tour

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman says he is pleased with his reception on a Midwest farm tour and, preparing to go South, won't look for support from "any Dixiecrats like Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.)."

The New York chief executive, aspirant for the Democratic nomination for president, expressed himself on a brief plane stopover here yesterday en route home.

Harriman said he will confine himself in the South to an effort to get Southern "liberals" on his side.

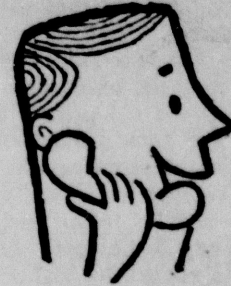

From his Farm Belt tour in Iowa, North Dakota and Minnesota, Harriman indicated enthusiasm. He talked about it in an interview at Willow Run Airport.

"The farmers," he said, "are in revolt and thoroughly sick of the Eisenhower-Benson fine talk about supports while their prosperity is fading steadily. The family farm is being plowed under." He said he expects to get strong support from Michigan delegates to the Democratic convention if and when Gov. G. Mennen Williams releases them from their "favorite son" pledge.

He was critical of President Eisenhower in regard to the steel strike. He said the President had failed to use the prestige of his office to try to settle the dispute.
